

The Nation

NEW YORK, THURSDAY, APRIL 4, 1912.

April 4, 1912]

The Nation

343

Notes

Karl May, whose death in his seventieth year is reported from Dresden, Germany, was a well-known writer of Indian tales and romances for boys. He also translated many stories from the Arabian, Turkish, Persian, and Chinese.